Background & Summary:

From May 15th to May 20th, Constituent Manager Solutions conducted a public opinion poll on the voting intentions of decided voters for the upcoming 2022 Ontario election this June.

In summary, our opinion poll found that the gap between the Progressive Conservative Party of Ontario and the Ontario Liberal Party has tightened in comparison to previous public opinion polls conducted by other firms over the past couple of weeks. While the Ontario New Democratic Party's vote share has decreased, the Green Party of Ontario's vote share has also increased in addition to the Liberals.

If an election were held today, it is evident that despite the tightening of the gap between the Progressive Conservative Party of Ontario and the Ontario Liberal Party, the Progressive Conservative Party of Ontario would still win the popular vote overall.

Opinion Poll Results:

A total of 312 Ontarians aged 18+ across the province responded to our public opinion poll.

Methodology:

This public opinion poll was conducted from May 15th to May 19th via live agent calling and interactive voice recording (IVR). A randomly selected list of 5,000 Ontarians aged 18+ from across the province were contacted with responses being collected from a total of 312 respondents. A formula was applied to the list of 5,000 random Ontarians to ensure that no particular demographic or region was overrepresented in our poll and the results were weighted fairly.

The following single question was asked of the respondents:

“If the Ontario provincial election were held tomorrow, which one of the following parties would receive your vote?”

Respondents were then given the option to select either the Progressive Conservative Party of Ontario, the Ontario Liberal Party, the New Democratic Party, the Green Party of Ontario or “other”. The order of the list of parties and how they were read off by the agent or recording to the respondent was randomized. Respondents who said they were undecided were not factored into this poll. The margin of error for a comparable public opinion poll to this one is +/- 4.7% 9 times out of 10 with a confidence level of 90%. With a smaller sample size as is the case with this poll, the margin of error is significantly higher.
